July 24, 2013: Department of Justice CIO Adrian Farley Speaks at Techwire Forum

California Department of Justice Chief Information Officer Adrian Farley will give a special presentation at the next Techwire Forum to be held on July 24, at 10 a.m. at the Sheraton Grand in Sacramento.

In a one-hour briefing, Farley will provide an overview of the department's mission driven technology program, upcoming initiatives, and the strategies being used to help carry out the Attorney General's tech-savvy agenda.

Adrian Farley CIO, DOJ State of CA

Farley has spent the last decade working in state government, serving in high-level positions such as Deputy Cabinet Secretary for Governor Arnold Schwarzenegger, Chief Procurement Officer at the Department of General Services, the state's Chief Technology Officer, Chief Deputy Director at the Office of the State CIO and Director of the Office of Technology Services.

As Attorney General Kamala Harris' chief information technology and security advisor, Farley oversees statewide law enforcement information systems, including the Hawkins Data Center, that enable law enforcement and public safety officers to share critical information and protect Californians in their communities. The CIO's role also includes managing the IT infrastructure and providing support for the Attorney General's Office, the state's largest law firm with more than 1,000 attorneys representing the people in criminal, environmental, consumer and civil cases.
